Genesis 17:1-7

Last week we talked about covenants or promises that God made to his people. Today in our Old Testament reading we see God confirming his promise to Abram and he changed his name to Abraham. The promise of God now was in the name of Abraham and became a part of him. When God makes a promise, he will keep it.

- What does your name mean?
- Why do you think it was important for God to give Abraham a new name?
- What promises does God give us today?
- How does God still give names to people?
